

The New Jersey Do Not Call list should be upheld. The proliferation of one's personal details and the consequent abuse of these details in this country is disgusting. I have lived in many different countries and this is the only one that would allow a person to interrupt my personal life to try to sell me something I do not want nor have any remote interest in. If I want to purchase something, I shall be the person to initiate such communication.

I am proud that the state in which I live has one of the most stringent set of regulations to safeguard my family life.

It is federal regulations that need to be tightened rather than making New Jersey regulations more lax.
